CODE OF ETHICS

Members of the Georgia Manufactured Housing Association hold it as our duty to act in every instance in such a manner that we may command the respect of the public for the manufactured housing industry and the goals toward which we strive. We regard the manufactured housing industry as an honorable profession, offering an avenue to provide valuable goods and services to the public.

Joining with others of high personal and business standards in our profession, we pledge ourselves to:

- Hold it as our duty to act in every instance in such a manner so as to command the respect of everyone with whom we do business;
- Employ honesty and integrity in the performance of all sales and services;
- Support honorable principles and oppose all unethical practices in the manufactured housing industry;
- Strictly observe all laws relative to the conduct of our business;
- Studiously avoid any personal or business practices which could bring our firm, or the manufactured housing industry in general, adverse notoriety or disrepute;
- Respect the authority vested in us by other individuals and companies in the manufactured housing industry to act in their behalf in serving the public, striving at all times to live up to the agreements made with those with whom we do business;
- Continue to remind our employees of our business principles and ethical standards, constantly informing them of the value of the merchandise and/or services we provide, realizing that, if they are not informed or misrepresent these principles and standards, intentionally or unintentionally, harmful effects to the public, our business and the manufactured housing industry are sure to follow;
- Strive continually to promote education, progress, fraternity and the dignity of the manufactured housing industry in order that the public will be better served.
